In total, the new firm has eight lawyers, including Shabnam Nouraie and Josh Richardson, who join as partners, and Lynn Beckemeier, who joins as of counsel. Nouraie and Lynn Beckemeier also had been at The Beckemeier Law Firm. Richardson was at McMahon Berger.

The practice will include business law, civil litigation, labor and employment, real estate, nonprofit counsel, estate planning and probate, religious freedom and expression, and international law.

Jim Beckemeier earned undergraduate and law degrees at the University of Missouri-Columbia. The Beckemeier Law Firm was formally organized in 2002, but was originally founded in 1948 by Beckemeier's grandfather, August Beckemeier.

LeMoine's experience is in labor and employment, general corporate law, mergers and acquisitions, nonprofit work, real estate law, and business litigation. He has served several clients as outside general counsel. He earned bachelor's and master's degrees at Wheaton College, and received a law degree at the University of Missouri-Columbia.

"I believe excellent legal services and solutions are delivered through an intentional and client-focused approach," Beckemeier said. "In my experience, this approach provides long term value to our clients, and we are deeply committed to building a firm culture with those attributes as its guiding principles."

LeMoine has long based his practice on a similar philosophy. "Lawyers and clients work best when they operate as partners, together working towards common goals," he said. "I believe a lawyer is most effective when he or she works with a client, rather than 'for' a client. It's a trusted advisor dynamic, one that each client deserves. This is a tremendous opportunity to join forces and the right thing for our clients, now and into the future."

The firm's offices are at 13421 Manchester Road in Des Peres.
